GIS Maps and Data

The city uses Geographic Information System (GIS) software to provide monitoring and analysis tools for spatial data. Spatial data refers to any information that can be located on a map. City spatial data include addresses, fire hydrants, police beats, Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP) areas, bike routes, cemetery plots, and much more.

PROPERTY REVIEW

Search for a property in the City of Monterey using a parcel number, address, place name, or clicking on the map. Returned results include jurisdiction information (neighborhood, police beat, etc.), zoning information, and a map.
